Wine and Food

At Sixpenny our list is chosen with an emphasis on styles that complement our food. This means a focus on light, fresh wines with texture and concentration of flavor.

Throughout the wine list we have highlighted a selection of wines from growers who we feel provide the most intelligent food pairing opportunities. Some are well known, others less so, but all are small producers who like us, are concerned with quality over quantity.

Our Champagne

We have chosen to pour Champagne Laherte Frères as our house champagne. Created in 1889, they own 10 hectares of premium champagne terroir, in 10 different villages. Laherte Frères is registered as a négociant-manipulant, but in reality this is true grower champagne, and all of the wines are estate-grown.

In the winery and the vineyard Aurélien Laherte favours labour-intensive traditional techniques. The results speak for themselves; beautiful champagne, concentrated, balanced and refreshing.

Grüner Veltliner

The native white grape of Austria, Gruner Veltliner has much in common with Riesling. Fresh & peppery with searing acidity and citrus notes when young, these wines mellow with age, becoming rich, nutty and golden; redolent with honeyed fruit.

Nicolas Joly

Based within Savennières in the Loire Valley, Nicolas Joly is considered the godfather of biodynamic farming in France. Planted in 1130 by Cistercian monks, the Clos de la Coulée de Serrant monopole forms the heart of the estate. Here, grapes are harvested late, over several weeks or months, and produce wines that are powerful and complex. These wines are now made by his daughter, Virginie Joly, and are some of the best in France.

Not Quite Nouveau

Perhaps inspired by the wines of Beaujolais, the below share a common theme. Light maceration & carbonic fermentation make for silky tannins & aromatic, juicy fruit. Delightfully quaffable. Served Chilled.
